

Lars Strannegård, President of the Stockholm School of Economics

Lars Strannegård is President of the Stockholm School of Economics. He is the holder of the Bo Rydin and SCA Chair in Leadership.

Lars Strannegård research interests focus on aspects of leadership, aesthetics, sustainability and organization.

Lars Strannegård has carried out research on organizing and management practice in multinational organizations, published for instance in his PhD dissertation Green Ideas in Business. His work has been published in journals like Organization, Journal of Organization Change Management, European Journal of Marketing, Leadership, Annals of Tourism Research and Marketing Theory.

Lars Strannegård has been a visiting scholar at Stanford University and Professor at Uppsala University. He is a board member in several research, culture and educational institutions.